Unfinished Songs

So you're thinking it's ending.

But it's just begun, your whole life is there, right in front of you.

Life's a story that is all twists and turns.

All that matters is the lessons we learn.

We're all unfinished songs, waiting for the best part to come along and we're all pictures half drawn, we can be anything we want, now is your time, its your life.

No one's living it but you, in your hands is your chance to live the life you choose.

Life's like music, there's so much still unsung. Make it magic, there's so much still to come.

You can write the song and write the story.

Live all of this life in all its glory.

Take the time to make the time to make each moment count. It's your life, it's your call.

Grab the chance. Have it all.

Hari om Jean

Written by Diane Warren